

2018 Annual Standards for Accreditation

Introduction

The purpose of the Georgia Main Street Program's annual year-end assessment is to recognize program accomplishments made in 2018, to address and discuss additional downtown revitalization issues, and to eliminate barriers to achieving work plan goals and activities. This assessment is not meant to be a qualitative ranking to compare your community's 2018 downtown revitalization and management activities with other programs, but should be used as a way to evaluate the successfulness of your local program and the greater role that it plays in your community's development. Main Street communities vary considerably in the scope and type of downtown revitalization activities the Main Street program decides to undertake; therefore, comparison between communities is impossible. Instead, this evaluation examines the effectiveness of the local Main Street program within its own context and circumstances, and recommends a level of activity the organization and community is prepared to undertake in the coming year that is appropriate to accomplish your overall goals and objectives. During this year-end assessment, information might be collected from several sources, including input from municipal partners, on-site interviews with the board, committee members and staff. This information will be integrated into recommendations organized within the context of the criteria needed to meet the 10 National Standards for Accreditation. The National Main Street Center's Accreditation Process evaluates local Main Street programs according to 10 performance standards and provides national recognition to those that meet these standards. The standards, developed by the National Main Street Center (NMSC), in cooperation with the Georgia Main Street coordinating program, provide benchmarks and guidelines on how a Main Street revitalization program should optimally function, and serves as an incentive for programs to operate more effectively. Your compliance with the Memorandum of Understanding between the local program and the Georgia Department of Community Affairs is closely monitored during the evaluation process.

1. Broad-based Community Support

At its best, a local Main Street Program represents and involves a coalition of organizations, agencies, businesses, and individuals from throughout the community. This does not only include property or businesses in the commercial district or those who have a direct economic tie to it, but all members of the community who are interested in the community's overall economic, cultural and historical health. Involvement by both the public and private sectors is critical as well; neither sector can revitalize the commercial district without the skills and vantage points of the other. Ideally, both sectors will participate in the revitalization process by providing funding, leadership, and ideas, and by encouraging collaboration between existing programs to assist in the revitalization process. By actively involving a broad range of interests and perspectives in the development of your historic district, the Main Street program leverages the community's collective skills and resources to its maximum advantage. The overall goal is for a broad range of constituencies from both sectors to understand and be philosophically committed to the revitalization process, and the maximum resources possible to achieve the goal of revitalizing the commercial district.

2. Vision and Mission Statement

A mission statement communicates the organization's sense of purpose and overall direction. A vision statement communicates and describes the look and feel of the district when the mission has been accomplished. The mission statement should additionally identify the method to achieve the community's vision for their downtown.

Be mindful that neither is simply a slogan. Both statements should be developed with the participation of the board, committees, program volunteers, and the community.

4. Historic Preservation Ethic

Historic preservation is central to a Main Street program's purpose. The historic buildings and public spaces of a traditional commercial district enrich civic life and add value on many levels to the community. Developing a historic preservation ethic is an ongoing process of education and discovery for a community and for a local Main Street program. Main Street programs that have embraced a strong historic preservation ethic are successful in saving, rehabilitating, and finding new uses for traditional commercial buildings. A strong focus should be on intensifying the uses of the district's buildings, through both specific building improvement projects and through policy and regulatory changes, which make it easier to develop property within the commercial district.

Many Main Street programs support preservation values, but do not fully understand that preservation is a shared responsibility and ethic, not just an activity or group of activities. Historic preservation involves not only the process of preserving, rehabilitating, restoring, or renovating older commercial buildings, but also the process of adopting long term preservation sensitive planning and positive land use policies, and removing barriers to downtown investment.

5. Active Board & Committees

---

Main Street revitalization is an ongoing process of changing a community's attitudes about its traditional commercial district(s). The direct involvement of an active board of directors and active volunteers is vital to this process. The Main Street director is responsible for facilitating the work of volunteers, not for single-handedly revitalizing the commercial district. In some cases, local Main Street programs were originated by or have merged with other organizations, which have a broader agenda (such as a chamber of commerce or a convention and visitors bureau). A local Main Street program with this structure has a better chance of long-term success if it maintains focus on its particular purpose and if its mission statement, work plan, budget, and governing body remain distinct from that of the larger organization in which it is contained. A full board that meets regularly, as stated in its by-laws, is extremely important in supporting this success.

6. Adequate Operating Budget

In order to be successful, a local Main Street program must have the financial resources necessary to carry out the annual program of work. The size of a program's budget will change as the program matures (in its early years, it may need less money than in high growth years). In addition, program budgets are likely to vary according to regional economic differences and community size.

Indicators-

- Program has a budget adequate to the execution of the annual work plan in conjunction with the MOU. (1 point)
- Funding is derived from at least 3 of the following sources: membership, earned income, sponsorship, municipal support, county support, facility leases, special event revenue, special tax districts, charitable contributions or grants. (1 point)

7. Staff Management & Development

Coordinating a successful Main Street program requires a trained, professional staff person whose sole focus is the success of their downtown. Main Street Managers come from a broad range of academic and professional backgrounds. The most successful Main Street Managers are those who are good communicators, support and motivate volunteers, have good project management skills and keeping revitalization activities moving forward on schedule and on budget.

8. Program of Ongoing Training

In order to meet new challenges and ensure a strong organization, Main Street program participants need ongoing training. Participants, both staff and volunteers, need different skills in different phases of the revitalization process. For that reason, the skills a program's participants learn in the program's catalyst phase are rarely adequate for the growth or management phases. As staff and volunteer turnover occurs, new staff members and new volunteers will need basic Main Street training. Moreover, all program participants should stay current on issues that affect traditional commercial districts and recent revitalization techniques and models. Regular attendance at trainings and networking events is required for Main Street executive staff.
